Today is Electronic Greetings Day!

Observed annually on November 29th, Electronic Greetings Day reminds us of how things have changed. The convenience and speed of sending an electronic greeting allows more people than ever to participate in this thoughtful process. We all enjoy it when someone remembers our birthdays, anniversaries and other important life events. While greeting cards continue to be used, electronic greetings are far more cost-effective and mean equally as much.

Not long after the advent of electronic mail (e-mail) in 1993, the electronic greeting came along. The first electronic greeting card site was The Electric Postcard and was created by Judith Donath in 1994 at the MIT Media Lab.

Did you know?

- The International Space Station travels 253 miles above the earth at 17,100 miles per hour and completes a full circle of the earth every 90 minutes. Astronauts on board get to see a sunrise and sunset 16 times each day.
- A bullet shot out of a rifle can exit the barrel at speeds up to about 2796 miles per hour. That's more than three times the speed of sound.
- The first person to ride down Niagara falls in a barrel and survive was a 63 year old dance teacher from Pennsylvania named Annie Taylor. Before taking the plunge, she launched a test barrel with her cat inside. The cat survived.
